Reliable, Affordable, and Long-Lasting Driveway Repair Services in Sweet Valley, Pennsylvania and nearby areas.

Most driveway problems in this area come back — not because the stone wears out, but because nobody fixed what was wrong underneath. Bad grading. No drainage. A weak base that never had a chance.

At Alliance Excavating & Stone Works, we fix what's actually broken. That means proper excavation, correct grading, and real drainage solutions — so your driveway holds up through wet springs, dry summers, and everything in between.

Real reason behind the problem

Why Your Driveway Keeps Failing — And How We Fix It

You've probably added stone before. Maybe more than once. And it looked fine — for a season. Then the ruts came back, the low spots filled with water, and you were right back where you started.

Here's why that happens: gravel doesn't fail because it's bad gravel. It fails because the base underneath is soft, the slope is wrong, or there's no system to move water away. Until those things are fixed, nothing on top will last.

In spring, freeze-thaw cycles heave and soften the ground. In summer, dry heat hardens the ruts and potholes into a rough, dusty surface that damages tires and looks terrible when company pulls in. And every heavy rain resets the damage all over again.

We fix the base. We correct the grade. We install drainage that actually works. That's what makes the difference between a driveway that lasts and one you keep spending money on.

THE PROBLEM

Does This Sound Like Your Driveway?

Every Spring
The Mud & Washout Problem

You're not alone. Homeowners across Sweet Valley, Hunlock Creek, Back Mountain, and Harvey's Lake call us after dealing with the same frustrating spring problems for years:

- Your gravel driveway turns to mud every time it rains — and your tires are digging it up worse
- Water pools at the bottom of your garage, and you can see it creeping toward the door
- You've already paid for a load of gravel twice — and it's gone again within a month
- Deep ruts and soft spots are making your vehicle work harder than it should
- You're tracking mud into the house every single day
- Guests have trouble getting in and out, and frankly, it's embarrassing
- After a heavy rain, part of your yard floods and the water has nowhere to go
- Spring thaw hit, and what was a solid driveway last fall is now a pit of soft, shifting ground

Every Summer
The Dust, Potholes & Loose Stone Problem

Most homeowners think the driveway problem goes away when the mud dries up. It doesn't. It just changes form. Once the ground bakes dry in July and August, a different set of problems takes over:

- Dust clouds kick up every time a car passes — coating your vehicles, windows, and siding in a layer of fine grit
- That same dust gets drawn into your home through open windows and works its way into your vehicle's air filter
- The ruts from spring didn't disappear — they dried and hardened, and now they're jarring your suspension every single day
- Loose gravel migrates off the surface and into your lawn — your stone is slowly disappearing without a single raindrop
- Potholes that looked minor in spring are now bone-dry craters that bottom out low-clearance vehicles
- The driveway surface has gone washboard — a rippled, uneven surface that's rough to drive and rough on your car
- Gravel is kicking up into the undercarriage, pinging off paint, and occasionally cracking a windshield

THE HARD TRUTH

The dust and potholes you see in summer are the same failed base you had in spring — just dried out. When the base is weak and the drainage isn't right, every season reveals a new symptom of the same underlying problem. Adding gravel doesn't fix it. It buries it until the next season uncovers it again.

Our Driveway Repair Services in Sweet Valley, PA

Complete Driveway & Drainage Solutions for Homeowners

Every service we offer targets the root problem — not just the surface symptom. Whether you need a full driveway repair or a drainage fix that's been causing damage for years, we've got you covered.

Gravel Driveway Repair

Your gravel driveway is failing for a reason. Ruts, soft spots, washouts, dust problems, and potholes don't happen randomly — they happen when the base is weak, the grade is wrong, or water isn't being managed properly. We find the cause and fix it with proper excavation, compaction, and stone placement.

New Gravel Driveway Installation

Starting fresh? We build new driveways the right way from day one — proper sub-base preparation, correct slope for drainage, and durable aggregates that perform through Pennsylvania winters, spring thaws, and summer heat without turning to a dust bowl or a pothole farm.

LEARN MORE

Fix Muddy Driveway

Mud is a symptom, not the problem. The problem is usually a failed base combined with standing water that has nowhere to drain. We excavate the saturated material, install geotextile fabric where needed, rebuild the base, and restore drainage. No more mud season — and a base that doesn't bake into craters once summer arrives.

Driveway Drainage Repair

If water is pooling on your driveway surface, running toward your garage, or sitting against your foundation after every rain, your driveway has a drainage problem. We design and install drainage systems tailored to your specific property — French drains, swales, culverts, and proper regrading — to get water moving away from your home and off your property.

LEARN MORE

Yard Drainage

A wet, soggy yard is more than a nuisance. It damages your lawn, undermines the soil near your foundation, and can push water directly into your basement or crawl space. We assess the slope and drainage patterns of your yard and install the right solution to move water out and keep it out.

LEARN MORE

Trench Drain Installation

Trench drains are one of the most effective tools for managing water that collects at the bottom of a slope, at the edge of a driveway, or at the entrance to a garage. We install trench drain systems that intercept surface water before it becomes a bigger problem — in spring and well into the wet fall season.

LEARN MORE

Fix Water Into Garage

If water is finding its way into your garage after a rain, the fix usually involves a combination of proper driveway grading, a trench drain at the apron, and better drainage management uphill. We solve the whole problem, not just part of it.
